Friday Morning, April 5, 1901.

The Gaffey ballot reform bill has been robed of nearly all of its good features by the minions of the machine, who act as manikins and are easily manipulated by "Old Man" Quay, who is at the Florida end of the long distance wires. Republican as well as Democratic papers unanimously agree that the Beaver boss is responsible for the malformation of the measure formulated by Colonel Geoffey. George W. Githrie in an address to the legislature last week in favor of the reform referred to the following pledge made by Matthew Stanley Quay on February 25 last:

"The regular organization is committed to municipal reform and ballot reform of elections and primaries. Our failure to discharge our obligations will cost us all the fruits of our great victory and sacrifice in 1902 every close legislative district by strengthening those in our party who allied themselves with the Democrats for our defeat in 1900, and may cost us the governorship, and we will sink finally into merited infamy."

If the Pennsylvania poobah is a true prophet he is now paving the way over which a funeral procession will pass in 1902—and the famous Sherman and politician will be among the chief mourners. The Republican legislature already has been guilty of enough sin of commission and omission to deserve ignominy defeat in every legislative district, whether close or one-sided, and the curse it has pursued, under Quay's direction, ought to cast the machine the governorship and sink the party into "merited infamy."

The capture of the
A PRISONER
Filipino chieftain,
Emilio Aguinaldo,
by the daring Fred Funston has started a general discussion as to what the government should do with their prize. Nearly every paper in the United States has published heavy editorials on this subject. The recommendations are of variegated and fanciful form. Some advocate trial for treason, others deportation to Guam, while others think Uncle Sam should treat the intrepid Filipino as the honored leader of an enemy which is fighting in a righteous cause, and at least one journal is in favor of making him governor of some province in the Philippines. Many think the capture of Aguinaldo means the speedy termination of the war, others are of the opinion that the end of the conflict will not be hastened by the mishap which has befallen the young man.

A host of prominent people also have placed themselves on record regarding the capture of the "president of the Philippines." The opinions of the leading thinkers of the country, like the views of the noted writers, differ widely.

William J. Bryan said regarding the capture of Aguinaldo:

"While no one can predict with certainty the effect of his capture, it is possible it may put an end to the war for the present, but the objection to imperialism is not removed by the surrender of those who have been opposing it in the Philippines. Imperialism is wrong, because it changes every theory of government. We cannot administer an empire in the Orient and maintain a republic in America."

United States Senator Henry M. Teller said:

"It is valuable to eliminate Aguinaldo from further operations in the Philippines, but I am sorry to say that his capture will not close the war by any means. I am of the opinion that we shall still have difficulties there because of the general sympathy of the people, according to General MacArthur's statement, with the insurgents. General MacArthur has reported that the people are united against us, and I am afraid that is true."

Secretary Erving Winslow, of the Anti-Imperialist League, said he was not ready to state that the capture of Aguinaldo meant the collapse of the Filipino cause.

"There may be twenty other leaders in hiding as capable as he," said Mr. Winslow. "The Filipinos have shown that they have ability to rule and ability to fight for liberty. This should lead us, even if the fighting should cease with the capture of Aguinaldo, to urge more forcibly even than we have done that the Filipinos be given an independent government at once."

Edward Atkinson, the well known Anti-imperialist, said:

"The administration had an elephant on its hands minus the trunk. Now that it has the trunk, what will it do with the whole animal?"

Gen. Nelson A. Miles said:

"The capture of the leader is sure to dishearten Aguinaldo's followers, and although there may be more or less trouble for some time with small bands in different parts of the islands, I believe that the backbone of the trouble is broken. No doubt there are other men among the Filipinos who are perfectly capable of taking Aguinaldo's place, as he is not a man of any great magnetism or ability, but I do not believe that after this capture there will be much enthusiasm under any leader."

While there has been such a lively discussion as to what should be done with Aguinaldo and what his capture means few papers and fewer people have given expression to their views as to what should not be done with the clever chieftain who led our soldiers such a long, stern chase. That is an easier proposition than the other. It has been remarked that if General Washington had been captured by the British during the Revolutionary war he would have appeared to his captors just as Aguinaldo appears to the Americans. Funston's captive should neither be made a victim of vengeance nor a "white elephant," but should be treated simply as a prisoner of war.

The Holland Submarine Boat. All of our readers are familiar with the Holland submarine boat, with which it is possible to go about 100 fathoms under water. If the enemy have a big warship in a strongly fortified harbor, the boat can be submerged and make its way to the ship, drop a powerful explosive under water, and blow it pieces without appearing above water. While the boat secretly destroys ships of the enemy, Hostetter's Bitters likewise attacks and overcomes dangerous disease. A few doses will give relief in any stomach, liver or blood disorder. The bitters not only cure the sick, but prevent the well from becoming sick. It should be taken by all who need a strengthening tonic.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSON FOR APRIL 1.
THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS.—
Lot 21.—"Now is Christ risen from the dead?"—1 Cor. 15:20.

Joseph of Arimathea, a counsellor of honorable estate, who also himself was looking for the kingdom of God, and Nicodemus, who at the first came to Jesus by night said, "We know the body of Jesus and taking Him down from the cross, wound Him in a linen cloth and laid Him in a tomb which had been hewn out of a rock and rolled a great stone to the door of the tomb and departed. And Mary Magdalene was there and the other Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

Now on the morrow, which is the day after the Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees were gathered together unto Pilate, saying, "Sir, we remember that that daider said, 'If he was yet alive, 'after three days I rise again.' Command therefore that the sepulchre be made sure until the third day, lest haply His disciples come and steal Him away, and say unto the people, 'He is risen from the dead; and the last error will be worse than the first.'

Pilate said unto them, "We have a guard go you way, make it as sure as you can." So they went and made the sepulchre sure, sealing the stone, the guard being with them.

Now late on the Sabbath Day, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled away the stone and sat upon it. The rest I saw a face that brought back a cloud of happy memories, with no sorrow to mar their beauty and content. It went back to an English home, in which I was an honored guest, enjoying a hospitality rich and rare, such as is seldom guaranteed to any of the children of men this side the gates of pearl and gold. As far as I know the public servants to whom we have been able to exterminate gambling in the borough of Manhattan and every other borough that composes the city of New York, which exists only by the sufferance of the police, whereby he squarely denounced them for the receipt of blackmail earned as the wages of prostitution and robbery. In his wrath and indignation, in which he appears to have lost his self control, he exclaims, "God! God! Has it come to this, that with all the sacrifices we have made to secure a g-g within the city's limits, although the price was $5 in favor of the drawee. While our horror is excited at the manner in which the poor are robbed, we learn with alarm from the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of Grace church, the most fashionable Episcopal church in the city, that gambling is indulged in by our highest society to an extent never before dreamed of in the city of New York. What does it mean? Gambling may be indulged in with the protection of the law by men whose fortunes can only be expressed by six or seven figures, while men whose fortune demands no figures at all for a less crime may be sent to the penitentiary. Tell me not in Gath! Utter it not in the streets of Askelon!"

It was with considerable surprise that the public saw in cold type a fierce attack by Abraham Hewitt on the criminal organizations in the city of New York, which exists only by the sufferance of the police, whereby he squarely denounced them for the receipt of blackmail earned as the wages of prostitution and robbery. In his wrath and indignation, in which he appears to have lost his self control, he exclaims, "God! God! Has it come to this, that with all the sacrifices we have made to secure a g-g within the city's limits, although the price was $5 in favor of the drawee. While our horror is excited at the manner in which the poor are robbed, we learn with alarm from the Rev. Dr. Huntington, of Grace church, the most fashionable Episcopal church in the city, that gambling is indulged in by our highest society to an extent never before dreamed of in the city of New York. MOVING PICTURES

How the Sketches Are Reproduced Upon the Films.

AMOUNT OF MOVEMENT

That May Be Crowded Into Fifty Seconds—How the Greatest Successes Are Often Brought About.

"A queer thing about moving pictures," said an expert operator in that line to a New Orleans Times-Democrat reporter, "is the illusion they generally produce us to the time they occupy while on the screen. What is known as the 'standard exhibition film' is so fast long. It is used almost entirely for comic scenes, trick pictures and other effects that are got up in the studios of the experts who make them a specialty. Every theater goes has seen them, and I will venture the assertion that the average man will declare they take at least three or four minutes in passing before the eye. As a matter of fact the picture is on the screen less than one minute. You can easily figure it out for yourself. The ordinary 50 foot film of the kind to which I refer is put through the reproducing machine at the rate of 16 pictures to the second. Each picture is three-fourths of an inch broad, which makes the 16 measure exactly one foot, edge to edge; in other words, the film travels a foot a second—30 feet to seconds. What gives it the effect of taking up so much more time is the immense lot of action that is usually crowded into the brief period it is in view. Until the moving picture was invented I don't think anybody had the least idea how much could be done in 30 seconds. It seems like time enough to turn around, if the experts begin to study it was ample for hundreds of little pictorial comedies that were since delighted audiences all over the world."

"It is entirely a matter of rehearsal. A subject is selected, generally calling for from three to four people, and every detail of the 'business' or action is carefully worked out in advance. Suppose, for illustration, that a comic burglary is the topic. The business, in skeleton, might run something like this: Old gentleman dozing in parlor; enter burglar; old gentleman awakes; burglar hides; enter policeman; scuffles the room; collar old gent; they fight and roll on the floor while burglar suddenly emerges and leaps out of the window. That doesn't sound particularly side splitting, but in the hands of intelligent comedians it can be made really very funny. The all essential thing is to crowd it into 30 seconds, and to end each bit of action is carefully timed and made to fit into each other bit like so many well geared cogsheels. The old gentleman's startled yawn, the burglar's glance around the room and every step, movement and gesture from beginning to end is calculated with the utmost nicety, and at last after dozens of rehearsals the act is attempted before the recording machine. If everything is lucky, it goes through unbroken, but the slightest mistake is fatal, and if one occurs the film is spoilt, and they must try all over again. No wonder it seems impossible for future spectators that so much could transpire in 30 seconds."

"But some of the most telling scenes in production pictures," continued the operator, "have been the result of accident and were entirely unpremeditated. That was the case with a film that I had a hand in preparing and that afterward made a tremendous hit and proved to be one of the best sellers ever put on the market. In getting up the picture our principal purpose was to introduce a large and very intelligent bulldog I owned at the time, and we sketched out a simple little scene in which a tramp steals a pie from a kitchen window, is pursued by the dog and is last seen trying to scale the back fence with the animal hanging to his caudal. The training of the dog was the main trouble, but I finally taught him to lay hold of anything red, and we sowed a big piece of tassel as a mark to the back of our tramp's coat. Red photographs black, so it couldn't be seen in the pictures, and after a good many rehearsals the dog learned to dash out at exactly the right moment and nail the intruder, whose cue was then to rush for the fence and consume the remaining time in making an apparently desperate effort to scale over the top. At last we got everything all ready, gave the word and started the record machine to take the picture."

"Immediately the little comedy began. The tramp appeared, looked around stealthily, saw the pie, hooked it and was having a feast when out sprang the bulldog and seized him by the coat tails. The tramp squirmed to the fence and was about to carry out the rest of the programme when, to our consternation, the boards gave way, and he came down bang on top of the dog. The film had about ten seconds to run, and it was occupied in recording one of the first scraps that ever happened. There was no hissopine about it. Both parties were out for blood. When the feline fell, the bulldog had promptly transferred himself from the tramp's caudal to the tramp's calf, while that unfortunate person snatched up a broomstick and tried to pry him loose. They rolled over and put about 50 times as much action and animation in the last ten seconds as had been crowded into the preceding 40. We finally pulled them apart, and it was not until the negative was developed that we realized what a prize we had accidentally secured. That earnest and impromptu wind up has convulsed audiences all over Christendom and made fully as much of a hit in Europe as it did at home."

No Venture About It.
"Is this your first venture in matrimony?" the preacher asked while the bridegroom was out in the vestibule giving certain instructions to the best man, who was also his head clerk.

"My dear Mr. Croddleigh," she replied, almost blushing, "this isn't a venture at all. He has given me deeds to more than $80,000 worth of property already."—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Raging, Roaring Flood.
Washed down a telegraph line which Chas. C. Ellis, of Lisbon, Ia., had to repair. "Standing waist deep in icy water," he writes, "gave me a terrible cold and cough. It grew worse daily. Finally the best doctors in Oakland, Neb., Sioux City and Omaha said I had consumption and could not live. Then I began using Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles."

Oscillation there is to be found a proprietor of a secondhand bookstore who is something more than the culture of his business would seem to indicate. He regards his old and rare volumes rather as a collection than a stock of goods and experiences a pang when he parts with one.

A dapper young man dropped into a secondhand bookstore kept by a man of this kind.

Taking down several choice old books from the shelves, he fingered them carelessly and replaced them. They happened to treat of abstract subjects and did not appeal to him.

"Are any of these books for hire?" he asked carelessly.

"No, young man," sharply answered the proprietor. "They are for sale."

An Old Deed.

The following appeared in last week's Pittsburg papers: "An old, yellow deed, almost falling to pieces with age, and dated 1788, which had been lost for years, turned up in Pittsburg. Its discovery will clear the title to valuable property in Bedford county on Tuesday. For fifty years the whereabouts of the document have been unknown, and Tuesday it came into the possession of F. Van Dusen, Jr., of the firm of Cavanagh & Co., the Wood street brokers at Pittsburg, with some other papers. It had lain for years in a farm house twelve miles south of Bedford."

"The deed was executed by John Elliott and conveyed to Daniel Elliott 22½ acres of farm land 'in the county of Cumberland, province of Pennsylvania, for and in consideration of $20 Pennsylvania currency.' It is acknowledged before Dorsey Pentecost, 'one of his majesty's justices in and for the county of Bedford,' May 20, 1772."
